The word festayre (from the Gascon hestaire) means ferias' partiers	Remember that in Spanish we have masculine and feminine nouns and the adjectives must match these nouns and change into masculine and feminine too, this is called adjectival agreement. Also remember: that adjectives go after nouns in Spanish!  La iglesia blancA = the white church  In Spanish, adjectives must agree with the noun they describe NOT only in gender but, in number too. This means that if the noun an adjective describes is feminine, the adjective must be feminine, and if that same noun is also plural, the adjective will be feminine AND plural as well. e.g: Las mujeres llevan vestidos rojOS = women wear red dresses, here the adjective has changed to masculine and plural. e.g: las flores son blancas -the flowers are white, the same way here, the adjective white has become feminine and plural = las flores son blancas.
